Area Overview

Birthplace of The Who and historically known for its laundries that serviced the West End hotels, Acton was originally built around the motor vehicle and components industries. Gunnersbury Park and Museum, with its extensive grounds was first opened to the public in 1926. The High Street and Churchfield Road are overflowing with shops, bars and restaurants and whilst the area suits young professionals, there are good primary and secondary schools making it a perfect choice for families too.

Portico Places Near Cumberland Park, Acton, W3

Anokha

Diners travel from afar to sample Anokhas generous portions of succulent shashlik bhuna, so I decided to hop on the Overground and go and see what all the fuss was about. The restaurant is BYOB, so you can pour while you ponder over their impressive menu, packed with all the usual tasty Indian and Bangladeshi dishes and some more unusual sizzling specialities Anokha meaning unique is Actons gateway...

The Rocket

Lets drink to adding a gastropub that serves up fantastic grub to Portico Places! Theatrical with a vintage allure, The Rocket exudes a Moulin Rouge grandeur while retaining a welcoming and relaxed atmosphere. I took a seat avoiding the chaise longue and chatted to owner and manager Filip about customers, cuisine and community Standing proud on the corner of Churchfield Road, its hard to imagine ...

Pearls Drycleaners

So youve just moved into your new home youve found a new watering hole and youve got the local takeaway number pinned to the fridge. Next on the list: find a drycleaners! Pearls has been serving the local community in Acton for the past eight years, and has earned a reputation for being friendly, reliable and reasonably priced Pearls definitely doesnt look like your average drycleaners from the out...

Arthur Razor

Uber-cool and exclusively men only, Arthur Razor offers the full barber service, plus a range of skin care, body care and waxing treatments from their private treatment room. In their own words, it sounds (s)wanky, but were not. And theyre right - this isnt the place for a Swedish, hot stone, aromatherapy oil, neck massage and a chai tea latte with soya milk. Think more along the lines of a great ...

Hasu

Hasu may be small in size, but it has already gained big reputation in Acton. I took a trip to Churchfield Road to find out how this little sushi restaurant has developed such a loyal following in just eight months and to try one of their famous dragon rolls, or four! Located in the heart of Acton, Hasu is a sushi restaurant thats all about the food - finally! Forget ornate, Japanese dcor and ex...
